

Amidst the virus, the work will continue . . .

When travel and team training are two essential components to your ministry work, what do you do when something like the coronavirus (COVID-19) surfaces? At KidZ at Heart, we pray for wisdom and safety, we inform our staff on how to be careful ... and we continue pursuing the work we are called to do.

In this issue of KidZ News and Views, that's exactly what you will hear. One team has already returned from a successful international trip, another one left a few days ago, and more are in the works. (We have a spot for you!)

But we begin with a note from Gordon about how KidZ is redefining the standard for church leader training in North America, and challenging churches to host a transformational training experience...for themselves and their communities.
